ABOUT

All Sounds Considered (ASC) explores the state of – Sound & Silence – without dogmas and pre-conceived theories.

The film shows some of the various facets that make up this fascinating domain.

Produced & directed by sound artist Goran Vejvoda & curator Florence Müller, the idea is to lend an open ear, to what actors of this versatile scene have to say.

Through various points of view, ASC witnesses the multiplicity of strategies, ideas and creations. In a modular and non-chronological approach, this “free-cumentary” leads us on a ballad, that spins in various directions with curiosity and looks into certain elements that constitute this vast panorama.

Artists, books, exhibitions, performances, interviews, instruments & machines... help us discover the world of contemporary sonic media.

In two episodes ASC delves into – Sounds – that feature a variety of innovating postures and approaches that artists, researchers and inventors have come up with on their quest. Focusing on the realm of audio perspectives and its iterations, this voyage into the world of multiple ways of working with a medium, that when it goes off the beaten track can irritate as much as it can profoundly seduce.

Sound as a medium. Sound as a medium in art.

Goran Vejvoda

Multi-media artist, born in London in 1956, studied music in Belgrade before becoming a figure of the rock scene in former Yugoslavia. Interested in Brian Eno, in 1986, he edited a book on his work, «Zaobilazne Strategije/Oblique Strategies». «A Square of Silence» published in 2008 in Milan by Emanuele Carcano, retraces thirty years of his various artistic sound involvements.

Goran Vejvoda developed an idiosyncratic body of work from concerts, exhibits, installations, lectures, records, videos, photographs, radio pieces... With his, variable geometry approach group: «BackGround», he made inter-disciplinary performances at the Centre Georges Pompidou, Palais de Tokyo, at the Grand Palais, the INA-GRM/Festival, Fondazione Morra in Naples or at the Bluecoat in Liverpool. In 2004, he participated in the exhibit «Off the record/Sound», being held at the Modern Art Museum in Paris. This exhibition gave access to the public, to hear compilations of contemporary music and sound creations.

He diversified his work composing for documentaries, feature films, commercials, short films, fashion shows, the theater and exhibitions. He has collaborated with various artists: Victoria Vesna, Tom Shannon, Jon Hassell, Kimiko Yosida... He conceived the soundtracks for Enki Bilal's films and composed music for the ballets of Angelin Preljocaj. He is currently working and pursuing various personal artistic projects from Denver and Paris.
